

Vote Farah Jameel #1

Priorities: Embed sessionals in decision-making structures.
Make GPC work for sessionals.

Character: Consistent, effective, vociferous activist @DrFJameel

In me, you have an experienced, knowledgeable candidate: a London-based full-time locum GP, who has worked in over 100 widely-varying practices since 2013.

With an ever increasing % of the GP workforce choosing to work as sessionals, and FYFV proposing new ways of working, the world of General Practice is changing. With sessionals making up the backbone of GP services, our lack of representation on CCGs, Federations, and LMCs is unacceptable.

Aside from core clinical work, my focus and track record is delivering strong medical leadership as part of different groups with real influence. As a sessional, I bring experience beyond a single practice, and am an innovative and analytical thinker, and effective communicator. With an eye for detail, I am used to summarising large quantities of information in order to participate and make contributions that add value. I've been able to build networks and excellent working relationships across branches of practice and different organisations from GPC to MWF. I have delivered for sessionals at the Urgent Care Commission. I have raised concerns around CSA pass rates, gender pay gap, indemnity, future of general practice. Continuing work: Gender variance, workforce engagement, federation formation, barriers in medicine, WRES. I have consistently lobbied to define "What is safe and sustainable in General Practice", since 2013.
